

ABSTRACT:

The present article describes in details the design, fabrication processes of parabolic trough collector and its optical performance. After the design analysis, the manufacturing of mirrors, receiver, tracking system, steel structure and collector assembly are clearly reviewed. The optical performance including mirrors reflectivity, receiver absorbance, glass cover transmittance and intercept factor that account for manufacturing errors and tracking system accuracy are discussed to refine the analysis