Abstract :

In this article, we present an exact method to find all efficient solutions of the multi-objective mixed-integer linear programming problem (MOMILP). Based on the branching process and by using an efficient cut to find at each iteration a new efficient solution (if it exists), the proposed algorithm is able to identify all the efficient solutions of the MOMILP problem in a finite number of iterations.